3. MORE ABOUT NEW POND FARM EDUCATION CENTER

New Pond Farm will host environmentally friendly coffee club

New Pond Farm is beginning a monthly shade-grown coffee club at its Marchant Road location.

It is starting the club to raise awareness of the fact that many migratory birds are losing their winter habitats due to coffee harvesting.

"As Central and Latin American coffee growers cut down vast acres of tropical rainforest for their crops, valuable wildlife habitats are being lost," the farm said in a press release. "By supporting shade-grown coffee from this region you are helping to save these essential habitats — one cup of coffee at a time." The group will enjoy "a cup or two of shade-grown coffee (along with home-baked treats) and learn more about this important issue," at the club.

"We are hoping to build interest in a monthly coffee club, where participants can gather on the farm to learn about birds and enjoy homemade coffee cakes and delicious coffees," said Thatcher Taylor of New Pond Farm.

"If they are interested, they can order environmentally friendly, shade-grown coffee beans from Birds and Beans (www.birdsandbeans.com)," he added.

The farm will host a different bird-related program at each month's gathering.

"One month we might discuss feeder birds, another time we might have a bird walk, another month we might have a bird banding session," Taylor said.

The cost to attend is $5 per person, per meeting

Registration is required. Register online at www.newpondfarm.org or call 203-938-2117 to register.

5. SAVE THE DATE – RRR16 PREVIEW RUN

Saturday, April 9th, 8am

Every year, a few weeks before race day, we have a preview run where we invite all runners out to run the course. You can run any distance from 3 miles to the full half and allow us to meet you. Of course, you also get to preview what you're in store for, course wise.

6. REDDING RUNNING CLUB

For local runners who want to occasionally (or more than occasionally) run with other people, the Redding Running Club was formed after the 2012 race and has grown very quickly (over 125). We run twice every weekend (typically starting by Metro North – see the X) and it has gotten a bunch of us in the best shape of our lives (can't sleep in on weekends when runners are waiting for you!!). Our typical runs are around 6 or 7 but we go longer when in marathon training mode. The routes can also be shortened for those who don't want to run the full distance. The club is free and very low key –show up whenever you want. We travel together for races, etc.... Email me if you want to be put on the distribution list.

Typical RRC (Redding Running Club) Meeting Location (Mile 1.5 of the races)

10. RUNNER STORY – REBECCA

I have never been a runner. I have been (a sprinter, gymnast, soccer player but distance no way), living my life at a very fast pace, always on the move, and never really learning how to relax (I am a doctor with two kids, two dogs, two cats, soccer coach...you get the idea). I started running when I was having difficulty sleeping. I literally started at .2 miles before stopping and I still struggle with that first mile because I don't have time to warm up appropriately. I ran a whole spring and summer with the goal of my first race, the Falmouth road race. I was religious about it and found that I kept running after because without it, I missed it. I liked running in a summer rain, on days my stress was high, but the cold killed me.

My daughter turned 10 and I coach her soccer team. The girls were pretty deconditioned so I spent all summer helping my daughter build distance to a 5K. She is like a machine- sets a steady pace and does not veer from it, not that either one of us is fast. So come soccer season, I opened it up and twice a week and sometimes on the weekends the girls would call and come over and run now with Isabel and me Everyone cheered everyone on, you could stop when you wanted, no pressure, but we encouraged each other. My daughter, her best friend and myself have now run several 5K's together as a tradition and I have coerced my cousin into running the Rugged Maniac obstacle race with me every year.

Last year, I hit my stride and even ran all winter, but then I had a bad ankle sprain and a heel fracture on 9/26 at the Rugged Maniac for 2015. I have been unable to run or exercise on my left foot since. It has been hard being so immobile so my daughter set a goal of her first 10K and then she scoured the internet. She started aiming for March, but got nervous I would not be better in time. Then she found your race, on my birthday. So come early morning, Sunday, May 1st- my now 13 year old daughter who out paces me, out grew me, and probably outweighs mewill be cheering me on and running beside me for what I hope is another wonderful mother-daughter experience and a re-entry into running.

Rebecca

11. RUNNER STORY – FARMER DAVE

Hi, I'm Dave Hambleton, I've won the Redding Road Race 7-mile race for the past 2 years running. This race holds a special place in my heart for a number of reasons.

One, I'm a farmer. I grow organic vegetables for a CSA in Dutchess County called Sisters Hill Farm. https://www.sistershillfarm.org/ In my life I've grown and shared over a million pounds of healthy and delicious vegetables with my customers and needy folks in my community. So, naturally I'm excited about competing in a race with a tagline "A Run for the Cows!"

But it's more than that, I also believe strongly in the power that a connection to nature, and a connection to a farm, can play in one's life. New Pond Farm's programs are something that I can get behind, they open this whole new world of wonder to a community of children who need to disconnect from their devices and see that natural world for what it really is—awe inspiring!

In a former career I was an environmental educator at Mohonk Preserve, sharing my love of nature with school kids. Now I share my love of farming with adult apprentices who want to learn how to farm in cooperation with the natural world—while simultaneously providing, great food, community, and a good income for themselves. It's the very basis of sustainability.

A second reason I love this race is the vibe; both the scenery and the community! John does such an excellent job putting it together. The planning, the food, the goodies, and the course are all top notch. Not to mention, the weather is always fantastic! How does he do that?

Finally, as an athlete, its great fun to compete... I don't normally win races, but somehow I've been blessed with the right alignment of the stars the past couple of years to bring home the goods. I'm not naive enough to think it will go on much longer, but I'll keep having fun regardless of my place. I've always thought of running races as a test against myself anyways—simply to see what my body is capable of on a given day. The competitors are a bonus to provide a bit more incentive to push myself.

Back when I was young, I'd race every race as if my life depended on it. Always dreaming of athletic glory, I actually quit my job in my early 20's to make a bid at Olympic level rowing. That dream sank a year later, when as a young newly-wed having no time for my wife or life, I realized that winning and glory were just not that important to me anymore...

Now-a-days my goal is simply to be fit and healthy. As such I don't follow a training plan. Thankfully my job insures that I'm active most days. I actually run very little, maybe at most 15 miles a week, yet I cross train extensively. When the weather is nice I'll usually mountain bike or trail run on very twisty woodland trails near my home. Now, in the winter, I stay in shape by lifting free weights, and using rowing and skiing ergometers, in a workout room in my basement. I've got a couple of pre-teen sons who join me most days, which adds to the fun!

One of the reasons I think I'm still relatively fast, is because I love to train fast. I know long slow distance is a very popular and effective training method, but if you never practice running fast, your body will never respond when you ask it to do so in a race situation. I also don't mind pain; at least not much. I'm willing to endure a bit of it, if it's going to bring me to a better place, or enable me to have a feeling of accomplishment.

This past summer I had a pretty traumatic mountain biking accident. I broke my collar bone and tore all the ligaments in my shoulder. It required a very intensive surgery and I now have a metal plate and Kevlar ligaments in my shoulder along lots of nerve damage. But now that the pain is easing and the motion and strength is returning, I'm grateful in a way for that experience. On the road to recovery, each day, each week, each month, each PT session--things slowly got better. How often in life does this occur? It was great to experience a period of steady improvement. Also, as an athletic risk taker, perhaps I'll bring the experience of that moment with me into future situation, and the memory will keep me cautious and safe?

Who knows, stranger things have been known to happen! Enjoy the race this year, I'll see you out there!

Farmer Dave

Dave calls himself Farmer Dave, I call him Redding Road Race 7 miler champion two years running, and excited about it!!

12. FAVORITE MARATHON – CLARENCE DEMAR MARATHON

Please send me write ups of your favorite races for inclusion in future newsletters.

Here is my favorite marathon (from John McCleary)

CLARENCE DEMAR MARATHON

KEANE, NH

Last Sunday in September

For marathon runners that need big crowds and big running fields, this is absolutely not the marathon for you. For those who like a net downhill course, run in usually ideal conditions, directed by a town that really cares about their race, you should definitely consider this small town marathon. AND, the price is very reasonable especially compared to your New York's of the world.

I first ran this race back in 2002 or 2003 and despite being in terrible shape, was amazed how I felt the whole race. The course has changed since then, but the current course contains:

- A nice downhill for the first half of the race. There's a bit of an uphill in the 3rd mile, but, typically you feel like you haven't even run at all at the half way point of the race (a great feeling to have) due to all the downhill running.
- An out and back at around mile 12 where you're actually running on a dam really scenic!
- An uphill at mile 14 or so, but it actually feels good after the nice downhill over the first half
- Race gets a bit too technical in the last 5 miles (a few too many turns), and a couple of short, tough hills at mile 24 (in a cemetery of all places!!), but compared to other marathons I've run, it's a pretty "easy" course.
- Overall, it's a very scenic, enjoyable course with the downhills no quad killers and only a couple, manageable up hills.

The town of Keane really embraces the race, the race director is very responsive and definitely go to the pasta dinner the night before – very small town homey feel. The race namesake is an all-time great Boston Marathon runner. Clarence Demar won 7 boston Marathons, a bronze medal in the 1924 Paris Olympics and did this all after his Doctor ordered him to stop running for fear of a heart issue.
